

Evening Hours

Bill Cunningham

From Causes To Cars

April 7: The National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University held its annual awards dinner at the Pierre. It was attended by 350 guests.

April 9: The International Auto Show held a gala at the Javits Convention Center. The evening benefited East Side House Settlement.

April 3: The Society of Illustrators held a reception for its exhibition "The Line of Fashion." It was a benefit to support the Gay Men's Health Crisis, a nonprofit group dedicated to the fight against AIDS. The exhibition, at 128 East 63rd Street, runs through May 2.

April 7: The Glimmerglass Opera held a benefit at the Metropolitan Club to raise money for the Young American Artists Program.

April 7: Children of Bellevue celebrated its 60th anniversary at its annual food-tasting benefit at the Mandarin Oriental hotel. About 400 guests attended.

10. VINCENT and DORINA AMOROSO.
11. SHEILA LUKINS, a cookbook author, and PETER GLASSMAN, president of Books of Wonder.

April 7: Trickle Up celebrated its 30th anniversary with a dinner at the Rainbow Room. It was attended by 336 guests.

12. From left, WENDY ROCKEFELLER; HOPE MILLER, who was honored; and LEIGH KENO.
13. BILL ABRAMS, president, and LINDA S. STRUMPF, an honoree.
14. DAVID H. RUSSELL, left, and ALAN J. PATRICOF.

April 7: The Lincoln Prize was awarded by the Lincoln and Soldiers Institute at Gettysburg College at a dinner at the Union League Club. It was attended by 250 guests.

15. CRAIG L. SYMONDS, left, and JAMES M. MCPHERSON, who were honored for their books on Lincoln.

